In giving birth thou didst preserve thy virginity, * and in thy falling asleep thou hast not forsaken the world, O Theotokos. * Thou hast been translated to life, as thou art the Mother of Life. * And by thy supplications thou dost deliver our souls from death

В рождестве девство сохранила еси,/ во успении мира не оставила еси, Богородице,/ преставилася еси к животу,/ Мати сущи Живота, // и молитвами Твоими избавляеши от смерти души наша.

В молитвах Неусыпающую Богородицу/ и в предстательствах непреложное упование/ гроб и умерщвление не удержаста:/ якоже бо Живота Матьерь/ к животу престава// во утробу Вселивыйся приснодевственную.

The tomb and mortality could not hold the Theotokos, * who is untiring in her supplications and our certain hope in her intercessions. * For He Who dwelt within her ever-virgin womb * hath translated her unto Life, * in that she is the Mother of Life.
